Ambassadors' Council May Meet.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
PARIS, Nov. 11.—[Tribune Radio.]—The meeting of the ambassadors' council will be held tomorrow if all the delegates have received instructions from their governments.

Embassies circle point out here that it is up to the British to suggest what action to take regarding the return of the crown prince to Germany, as Lord Crewe, British ambassador, first raised the problem Tuesday when he asked Premier Poincaré to agree to make a protest to Holland.

It also is pointed out that if action is taken against the Hohenzollern crown prince's presence in the fatherland a similar course must be taken towards the Bavarian crown prince, who has been left unthroned for five years, although Crown Prince Rupprecht frequently reviews parades of the army and participates in the activities of restorationist organizations.

It is reported that the British will not contest Chancellor Brüning's statement that it is impossible to reestablish the allied military control in Germany immediately, but will suggest that the Berlin government attempt to permit the functioning of the committee as soon as possible.

CROWN PRINCE SEES SON; GOES TO OELS TODAY

German Village Ready to Welcome Exile.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—[Tribune Radio.]—While Crown Prince Oedta and a crowd of villagers waited at Oels, the German crown prince tonight broke his journey to his Silesian castle at the estate of Count von Blaszewitz at Pratten, Mecklenburg, where his eldest son, 13-year-old Frederick William, met his father. Prince Oedta, a brother-in-law of the crown prince, also greeted the crown prince.

The meeting between the crown prince and his son was touching. When Frederick William saw the last, two years ago at Wieringen, he was a gangling boy of 16. Today he is a tall, handsome youth, ready for his university studies. William embraced his son and then shook hands with him, emphasizing that the lad no longer was a boy in years, but a man, who must carry on the traditions of the family. After dinner they passed an hour together before the crown prince, tired from his long journey, retired.

Early tomorrow morning he will leave on the last stage of his journey to Oels.

CROWD AWAITS PRINCE

OELS, Nov. 11.—[Tribune Radio.]—It was a disappointed crowd of Silesian villagers which waited all day in Oels to greet the German crown prince on his return home. It was nearly midnight before they gave up hope that he would appear. Not until the lights which brightened the windows of the castle had been extinguished did they quit their vigil and straggle away from the gate through which William was expected to pass this evening.

Crown Prince Oedta, who with three of her children will welcome the crown prince, spent the entire day making preparations. She had had no news from him since yesterday, when a telegram informed her that he had crossed the border at Benthelm. Late this evening she received another wire saying the journey had been broken at Platten.

She had visited the meat markets.

grocery stores, and bakeries all morning laying in a supply of food for the celebration. In addition the tenant farmers who rent portions of the estate sent in gifts of chickens, cheese, milk, and eggs.

Used Estate for Hunting.

The prince before his exile visited his vast estate at Oels only during the hunting season, and in the forests covering 50,000 acres he found the best shooting in Germany. But, despite this fact the crown prince is as popular as if he had spent most of his life here. Crown Prince Oedta has seen to that.

The crown prince's estate covers 40,000 acres of field and forest. About 5,000 acres are his own heritage and 35,000 acres crown lands, for which he is suing the Prussian state. It is declared here that he is progressing favorably with the suit and has every chance of winning the lands for his personal property.

Four-fifths of this property, including most of the forest, has been retained by the crown prince. The remainder, but the crown prince will devote himself to the management of some 8,000 acres which remain for his personal exploitation.

Oels castle, which is situated in the middle of this grimy workers' town, is one of the finest examples of German romanticism. Part of the 200 rooms are fallen in ruin, with the high gables, ivy covered, tumbling drunkenly sideways. Other rooms which still are in good condition, cannot be lived in because of their enormous size. There is not enough coal in all Berlin to heat them through the Silesian winter.

PARIS SAYS U. S., LLOYD GEORGE ARE TO BLAME

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
PARIS, Nov. 11.—David Lloyd George, former prime minister of Great Britain, and the United States are blamed principally for the world unrest and the German situation by most of the Paris newspapers, which publish reviews of the situation five years after the armistice today.

The anti-government organ attack Premier Poincaré bitterly for his policies resulting in isolating France and even hitherto supporters of the present cabinet are beginning to indicate that the government must adopt a more constructive and elastic policy to achieve something. Mouthpieces of the French government insist Secretary of State Hughes smashed the committee of experts project.

A few newspapers begin to show anxiety over rumors that Great Britain and the United States soon will apply pressure on France to accept to their ideas through asking that the war debt be funded as was Great Britain's debt to the United States.

M'CORMICK SEES U. S. OPPORTUNITY IN TWO AMERICAS

Senator Medill McCormick yesterday made the following statement touching the recent negotiations between M. Poincaré and Secretary Hughes on the subject of a conference over reparations:

"Let us now plan to do the possible to the interest of the American producer and taxpayer. Some good people would see the two weeks ago because I said that M. Poincaré was stubborn and intractable; that his policy injured the French peasant, the German workman and the American farmer; that it would take something more than the Curson-Hughes proposal to reestablish European industry and credit; because I said with classic courtesy that too many American diplomats are too drunk and talked drunk."

"It is of public record that M. Raymond Poincaré will have it his own way or not at all, and that the administration has repudiated the speech of Mr. Herrick, American ambassador in Paris."

"I repeat that we expect to see the two Americas as much as we do to continental Europe. If the administration by conference will bring about united action for the development of pan-American trade and for the curtailment of local and state taxation it will of the American farmer, workman and manufacturer than by any effort which M. Poincaré already has decided shall fail."

PARADING HOSTS HONOR ARMISTICE AND POLISH HERO

Wrongs Hear Haller in Tribute to America.

Old Glory and the Polish White Eagle were borne side by side yesterday afternoon in the Armistice day parade, which paid tribute both to America's victory and to Gen. Jozef Haller, hero of Poland, who was the city's guest.

Parading the parade, at 11 o'clock in the morning—five years to the minute since the world war had ended—Chicagoans turned to the east and sort of a minute of silence in honor of those who had failed to return from the war.

Thousands of marchers assembled in Lincoln park for the first ceremony since the war with the parade—the placing of a wreath on the Lincoln monument. At the foot of the monument were Gen. Haller, Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works; County Judge Edward J. Jarecki, the medal of honor man, Col. Howard W. Savage, Maj. W. Sullivan, and Capt. James Russell.

Gen. James E. Stuart, 85 year old veteran of three wars, was marshal of the parade, in which khaki and sky blue uniforms were intermingled from park to park to the Municipal pier and later in the auditorium on the pier.

Col. Savage and Col. Sprague estimated that 30,000 marched in the parade and 100,000 others thronged both sides of the drive from park to pier.

The American Legion and the national Polish veterans were applauded. Citizens doffed their hats to Gen. Haller and the other notables; some shouted "Your soldiers—wonderful!" Gen. Haller said to Mayor Dever, "Your people—all grand."

Col. Savage, vice commander of the Illinois department of the Legion, was chairman of the assembly at the pier.

"Today's demonstration proves that Armistice day belongs to the Legion forever," he commented.

Here Lands Chicago Flyer. Mayor Dever, John P. Smulski and Congressman Burns, preceded Gen. Haller as speakers. The famous Polish being presented, first called Col. Cedric Fauntleroy and told his audience what Poland owed to the American aviator who at the end of the world war, led the Kasinka escadrille, composed of twelve American flyers, to the aid of Poland. Three of the twelve are buried in Warsaw, unforgettable in Polish history, Gen. Haller said.

"Soldiers of the world war, brothers," he then began in English, "on this day of the Armistice I pay tribute to the American nation. I pay tribute to the American who first insisted that Poland be a free nation, President Wilson. I salute Gen. Pershing, who led American troops to victory over tyranny. I salute all those who gave their lives for justice and peace."

"I salute the American colors, the spirit of the American nation. I salute Washington."

And then with a lusty "Hurrah!" he led the cheering; bade his audience be seated again, and resumed his address in Polish. He spoke of the millions of graves in Europe filled by war victims and asked that they would profit by the lesson and promote a perpetual peace.

PASTORS' VIEWS DIFFER. BY THE REV. W. B. FORTSON. Soldiers of the world war yesterday were accorded homage as heroes in church services and mass meetings in honor of Armistice day. Everywhere congregations were urged to work for a peaceful world.

A hopeful view of world conditions was taken by the Rev. Charles B. Althoff, pastor of the Lorimer Memorial Baptist church at 74d street and St. Lawrence avenue.

"The war taught us that the democracy for which we fought as a nation was not in vain," Dr. Althoff said. "The idealism which actuated us has converted materialism. A new era of human progress has come. We must not be pessimistic at the present chaos. The peace for which we fought will be realized when the nations of Europe open their eyes and see what American enjoys as the result of an unselfish democracy."

"We can thank God the Monroe Doctrine is still alive in the heart of the American people, that we see the path of safety lies in our keeping out of European entanglements and aiding by our unselfish altruism that blessings come to those who seek peace and pursue it."

At a mass meeting in the Studebaker theater under the auspices of the Association for Peace Education, Dr. L. L. Mann, rabbi of Sinai congregation, was applauded when he declared there is

Sister of Grover Cleveland Sees Hope for Torn World

Mrs. Susie Cleveland Yeomans of New-York City, sister of Grover Cleveland, came to Chicago yesterday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Anna Y. Reed of the Windermere hotel, a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago. Mrs. Yeomans is "eighty and past," although she looks a score of years younger, and quotes St. Paul on prohibition.

"She has lived through two wars, and, looking back through the vista of her years, says there is hope for the world."

Keen Observer of Events. Mrs. Yeomans, despite her advanced age, is a keen observer of world conditions. Her eyes are bright and alert, and they sparkle with animation as she discusses Woodrow Wilson, her illustrious brother, the liquor question, politics in general, the recent war, and a dash of other things.

"My brother," she says, discussing Grover Cleveland, "was a sort of grand mogul, you must know, in our house. We other children looked up to him with some awe. My father died when he was only 14, you know, and Grover was virtually the head of the house."

Mrs. Yeomans did not believe the United States would have entered the world war if Grover Cleveland had lived. "Woodrow Wilson's chair," she said, "you must know, in our house, was a warning. He is a man above his nation with his lofty ideals. His head is among the stars."

Strong for Prohibition. On prohibition she stands four square, she is for it. For it economically, viewing it in the light of what is best for the country as she sees the light. For it personally, she quotes St. Paul: "... if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth..."

"The liquor question today," she said, "stands in my mind like the slavery question in the old days. Slavery had to be done away with."

She spoke of her late husband: "He was a Lillian Yeomans," she said. "A strong Republican, and for two years with Roosevelt in the New York legislature. But he voted for Grover Cleveland. 'I know the man,' he said, and voted Democratic although he lost some prestige by it."

less democracy in the world today than at any time in the last 100 years. "What are you applauding that statement for?" shouted Dr. Mann. "This is not a sentiment to applaud. It is a tragedy."

Dr. Mann pointed out that America had fought to make the world safe for democracy, to crush militarism, and to end war.

"Yes," said Dr. Mann, "we have crushed German militarism, but there is more militarism in the world today than there was in 1914. France, Italy, and Japan have increased their military equipment, while England has given abounding encouragement to navalism, which is just as bad as militarism."

"There is only one way to end war, and that is to educate for peace in school text books, in churches and temples, and by every agency."

"I haven't Christian grace enough to be a pacifist," said the Rev. George A. Buttrick, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Buffalo, who spoke at the Sunday Evening club.

"Because I am not a pacifist, I believe in putting locks on my doors, but I don't believe every citizen should go around armed. We have policemen for that. So as nations we ought to pool our resources in policing the world. If we cannot solve the problems of this world without war we ought to confess ourselves bankrupt in brains as well as morals."

The league of nations was a baby born in America. We took it to Europe for inspection and when we brought it back we politely strangled it. What we need is peace makers, not peace talkers nor peace hoppers."

Benefit Yields $4,000. Stage stars appearing in current Chicago plays during the afternoon took part in a benefit performance given under the auspices of a number of society women in the Adelphi theater for the benefit of the disabled veterans of the world war. It brought in approximately $4,000, it was stated.

A program autographed by the stars was sold at auction by Tom Wise, leading man in "The Old Maid." Miss Daisy Love purchased it for $25.

CROWDS IN LONDON. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) LONDON, Nov. 11.—(Tribune Radio.)—The observation of Armistice day in London this year was perhaps even more impressive than in previous years because of the day falling on Sunday, permitting thousands who otherwise would be retained in the shops, offices, and factories to congregate near the cenotaph in Whitehall monument.

At Perpetual Lamp. At 6 o'clock tonight the wounded minister of war, M. Maginot, hobbled to the lamp placed at the head of the unknown soldier's grave, which burns perpetually.

Gen. Pershing let the guest of Marshal Foch at a banquet tonight. Restaurants have received special permission to remain open all night long.

At the Cenotaph. The official observance of the anniversary this year took a dual form, there being a public gathering at the cenotaph, while at the same time a solemn memorial service was held at Westminster abbey, attended by the king, queen, prime minister, diplomatic corps, and representatives of every branch of English life.

Sea of Human Faces. The scene at the cenotaph was unforgettable. Within a hollow square composed of tall guardmen, detachments from the army, navy, air, and territorial forces and former service men stood the ministers of the government, the Prince of Wales, representing the king, and other high dignitaries. Outside of the hollow square to the end of the street in either direction was a vast sea of human faces.

The pilgrimage from the remotest corners of the British Isles began yesterday morning, and all day and practically all night there was an unending line of mourners past the monument. Just before 11 o'clock struck on Big Ben, the huge clock in the tower of the houses of parliament, the Prince of Wales and others deposited wreaths from the king and governments of the fighting forces of the dominions. Then on the stroke of the hour the houses of parliament, the Prince of Wales and others deposited wreaths from the king and governments of the fighting forces of the dominions. ARMISTICE DAY RIOTS IN PARIS; MANY INJURED

Pacifists Attack Occupation of the Ruhr.

BY HENRY WALES. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Numerous clashes between the police and pacifist workers occurred in Paris today, resulting in the wounding of several persons, including Deputy Vaillant, a coadjutor.

The workers assembled in Place de la Republique, crying, "Down with war!" when the police formed barricades to prevent them from marching down the boulevard.

Near Gare d'Est a crowd encountered the police, who tried to disperse them because they were singing "The Internationale," and several were wounded. Mounted police charged and dispersed the crowd.

A pacifist mass meeting in Bordeaux applauded attacks on French occupation of the Ruhr.

Honors to Dead. Solemn, impressive homage was paid to the unknown soldier buried beneath the Arche de Triomphe at 11 o'clock this morning. President Millerand, Premier Poincare, the cabinet members, diplomatic corps, ambassadors, and ministers, except the representatives of the late enemy powers, and France's war heroes, Marshal Foch, Gen. Foch, Gen. Gouraud, Gen. Mangin, and Gen. Pershing were present.

Exactly five years after the armistice lull the firing on the front a cannon roared a signal for silence, and 10,000 heads were bowed. Utter silence prevailed for two minutes. Then another shot was fired. The distinguished visitors paraded past the unknown warrior's resting place, respectfully saluting.

The official observance of the anniversary this year took a dual form, there being a public gathering at the cenotaph, while at the same time a solemn memorial service was held at Westminster abbey, attended by the king, queen, prime minister, diplomatic corps, and representatives of every branch of English life.

Sea of Human Faces. The scene at the cenotaph was unforgettable. Within a hollow square composed of tall guardmen, detachments from the army, navy, air, and territorial forces and former service men stood the ministers of the government, the Prince of Wales, representing the king, and other high dignitaries. Outside of the hollow square to the end of the street in either direction was a vast sea of human faces.

The pilgrimage from the remotest corners of the British Isles began yesterday morning, and all day and practically all night there was an unending line of mourners past the monument. Just before 11 o'clock struck on Big Ben, the huge clock in the tower of the houses of parliament, the Prince of Wales and others deposited wreaths from the king and governments of the fighting forces of the dominions. Then on the stroke of the hour the houses of parliament, the Prince of Wales and others deposited wreaths from the king and governments of the fighting forces of the dominions.

Coolidge Pays Tribute of Nation to Unknown Soldier

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—President Coolidge laid a wreath today on the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington as the Armistice day tribute of the American people to the memory of "those who did not see the end, but died that the end might come."

The tribute was carried out by the chief executive in strict accordance with the custom established a year ago by President Harding.

Leaving the White House at 10 o'clock, Mr. Coolidge arrived at Arlington before many of the thousands who gathered there in observance of the fifth anniversary. He was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, his military and naval aides and Secretary Weeks of the war department and Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department.

At the Tomb. The party, met by an escort of cavalry, drove along the wide avenue from which stretch on either side, row on row, the world war dead. At the tomb of the unknown soldier stood an honor guard of marines.

The President, with Secretary Weeks to his right, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt to his left, the President, bearing a massive circle of white chrysanthemums, walked to the tomb and laid the floral tribute upon the marble top. Mr. Coolidge stood with bowed head for a minute and then raised his hand in salute to the honored dead.

The President was turning to leave when Mrs. Coolidge stepped to the tomb and laid beside the wreath a white rosebud, the special tribute of American womanhood.

Services in Amphitheater. Several thousand persons attended services held at the memorial amphitheater in the afternoon and many more, gathered on the nearby slopes, heard the service of song, prayer and address through amplifiers mounted on the top of the structure.

Bishop William F. McDowell of the Methodist Episcopal church made the principal address, an appeal to the American people to keep the faith at the time when the tendency is strong "to lapse back into optimism, into aspiration, into complacency of soul when the glory of conflict has passed."

FRANCE IS RIGHT, DAWES SAYS IN ARMISTICE TALK

During an Armistice day dinner in the North Shore hotel, Evanston, last night, Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes told several hundred members of the Evanston American Legion post that France's Ruhr policy is right. Then he concluded his speech by banging his fist on the table and shouting: "It was a hell of a war, wasn't it?"

A water glass fell to the floor and broke. Col. John J. Bullington, who also spoke, led the applause.

"France looks out today upon the graves of her soldiers and her dwindling resources and asks: Where will we get the means to pay America unless we stay in the Ruhr?" Gen. Dawes said. "And France is right. She cannot pay and she should not pay until she collects what Germany owes her."

"President Wilson was right at Versailles, but he was in advance of public opinion. He was hindered in handling his problems by the political demagogues of the time. When France stopped the Ruhr, she took the first step which should readjust public opinion and settle the reparations question."

WILSON CLAIMS HIS PRINCIPLES "WILL PREVAIL"

Sees 'Utter Destruction' for Opponents.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Former President Woodrow Wilson broke under emotion today as he addressed the chief Armistice day pilgrimage that gathered him at his home here. The assemblage, the largest since his friends and admirers started the annual visits to the war president, was greatly touched by the few faltering words that fell from the lips of the ex-President.

Several thousand persons sought the Wilson home, and hundreds, including disabled war veterans, stood before the portals of the residence from which the ex-President responded to the address of greeting by Senator Carter Glass (Dem., Va.).

Halted by Emotion. Mr. Wilson, apparently under physical pain and deep emotion, paused for a short time before he began speaking. He proceeded speaking slowly and his voice broke as he raised his eyes to the disabled soldiers and paid tribute to them and Gen. Pershing. His emotion was so great that he abruptly ended speaking. The leader of the band, thinking he had concluded, gave the signal for music and before the President recovered his voice the band began to play "How Firm a Foundation."

The former President faced the crowds and looked nervously into the faces of the women, many of whose eyes were filled with tears. Then, recovering himself and signaling the band to cease playing, he delivered the strongest sentence of his two minute speech.

Principles Sure to Prevail. "Just one word more, I cannot refrain from saying it," he said. "I am not one of those that have the least anxiety about the triumph of the principles I have stood for. I have seen facts resist Providence before, and I have seen their destruction, as will come upon these again—utter destruction and contempt. That we shall prevail is as sure as that God reigns. Then, in an aside to those near him, Mr. Wilson said: "That's about all I can do."

Thousands Line Street. When the ex-President appeared at his front door the street was filled from Massachusetts avenue to Connecticut avenue, a distance of five blocks. Fully 5,000 persons lined both sides of the street in the vicinity of the house. Senator Glass stood to the left of the portal. As Mr. Wilson, assisted by a servant and followed by Mrs. Wilson and Ellen McAdoo, his grandchild, came from the house, a wave of cheers greeted him, and the band played "Over There."

Senator Glass stood near to Mr. Wilson as he delivered his greeting. Mr. Wilson, his head bowed and uncovered, listened eagerly but did not once raise his eyes to the crowds, while Mr. Glass praised his record and his efforts in behalf of the league of nations. Mr. Glass spoke five minutes. All this time the former President stood unshaken.

The case which he had used he hung from the top pocket of his overcoat, while in his right hand he held his top hat.

Under Deep Emotion. Not once did the former President lift his eyes as cheer after cheer went up in tribute to him. The applause and cheers affected him visibly and when he began his response he was laboring under emotion and perhaps physical strain. He looked first at the line of disabled veterans directly in front of him. He raised his head and moved his right arm as in gesture. But no word came. It was at least 10 seconds before he could control his emotions.

Senator Glass, ladies and gentlemen, he began with feeble voice, and speaking slowly, "I am indeed deeply touched and honored by this extraordinary exhibition of your friendship and confidence; and yet I can say without hesitation that I wish you would transfer your homage from me to the man who made the armistice possible."

"It was possible because our boys had beaten the enemy to a standstill. You know, if you will allow me to be didactic for a moment, 'armistice' merely means 'standstill of arms.' Our late enemies, the Germans, call an armistice 'waffenstillstand'—an armed standstill—and it was the boys that made them stand still. (Laughter and applause.) If they had not, they would not have listened to proposals of armistice."

"I am proud to remember that I had the honor of being the commander in chief."

"The best one on earth," shouted a man in the crowd. "Of the most ideal army," said Mr. Wilson, continuing, "that was ever thrown together—pardon my emotion—through the real fighting commander-in-chief was my honored friend Pershing, whom I gladly hand the laurels of victory. Thank you with all my heart for your kindness."

Here it was that the band broke in and Mr. Wilson had it stopped. Most of the Democratic leaders who are here were not communicative today about Mr. Wilson's radio address last night, which some of his closest friends hope will prove a force to start a new drive for American support of the league. William G. McAdoo, the ex-President's son-in-law, and a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, declined to say whether he believed Mr. Wilson's address.

Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said he did not think he cared to make a statement at this time about the Wilson speech.

adding that if he did it would be to say only complimentary things. "I believe the statement of the former President will be received with enthusiasm by a majority of the American people," said Senator William H. King (Dem., Utah). "The people which have guided the American people in the past will guide them in the future. No narrow isolation policy is compatible with the mission of this republic or with the views of a majority of our people."

WEATHER BUREAU 'DISCOVERY' LATE, MAXWELL FINDS

Tribune First Told of Climate Shift.

BY SELBY MAXWELL.

Charles F. Marvin, chief of the United States weather bureau, has announced in the latest issue of the Monthly Weather Review, which is the official organ of the weather bureau, that he has discovered there are long term fluctuations in the weather. But the Tribune made the discovery first, and on Feb. 5, 1922, stated that the amount of the fluctuation for 1922 was a bodily shift of all our weather south for a distance of 250 miles since 1891.

Tells of Fluctuations.

Marvin states that he "is inclined to believe that important long time fluctuations of climatic conditions have occurred, and that minor surges of the seasons to and fro can and do take place and prevail over restricted regions for relatively long periods of time, like 50 to 100 years." This is his answer to the question which is frequently asked: "Is the weather warmer now than it used to be?" Up to this time the official attitude of the weather bureau has been to deny steadily that there have been any changes.

Chief Marvin states in another part of his announcement that "shorter periods are also found and admit of more careful analysis because of their greater number and frequency."

Sun Spots a Factor.

But on Feb. 5, 1922, THE TRIBUNE said, in commenting on the reasons for our changing weather: "Scientists explain this variation as being due to the action of the sun. We are at the top of two sun spot cycles, they say, one a long one of thirty-four years, which has been with us for some time, and a second of eleven and nine-tenths years, which is now at its maximum intensity. The effects of these two cycles are compounded upon us, and our weather is shifted as a result."

THE TRIBUNE has also said from time to time that weather is made up of many waves, or cycles, of heat, cold, rain, drought, and other atmospheric elements, and has pointed out the changes in these cycles as they occurred in weekly articles.

POLICE BLAME WERNER LOOT ON FAKE STOCK RING

"Bootleg Trust" Used to Market Stolen Bonds.

Information indicating that a group of bootleggers and fake stock brokers in Chicago, together with a bootlegging ring covering New York state, were given the task of disposing of the $100,000 loot of the Werner warehouse robbery, was obtained yesterday by investigating officials.

In addition, Buffalo, N. Y., detectives reported to Chicago authorities that through the arrest in that city of William McGill, when disposing of $100,000 worth of bonds stolen in the small theft, they have learned that the bootleggers turned the bonds over to McGill to market.

According to Buffalo police, part of the loot, mostly stolen bonds, has been sent to Syracuse, N. Y., for disposal. Directors of bootlegging activities in New York state expected to scatter them around through their satellites, it is believed.

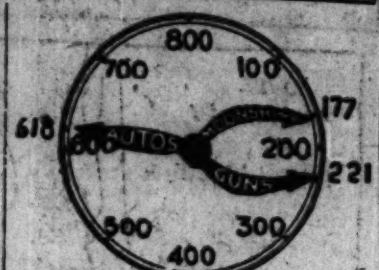

Bootleggers Handle Bonds.
McGill, who was released in Buffalo on $10,000 bonds, was rearrested as a fugitive from justice on a charge preferred by Chicago police. He will be turned over to Chicago detectives, who are expected to arrive in Buffalo on Monday.

As the information from the east was received, Charles Wharton, assistant state's attorney, and Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes began an investigation of the security mortgage company here, and sent squads of detectives out to seek the men back of it.

This company, apparently trading on the name of the reputable Mortgage Investment and Trust company, according to officials, was organized by Julius Ryer, now under arrest for receiving and selling bonds which were part of the Werner loot. Ryer formerly was connected with Ryer, Whitney & Co., brokers, which closed during the investigation of bucket shops last summer.

HANDS OF DEATH

The clock indicates the number of deaths caused by automobiles, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

$5,000 by this company, and other information indicates that men connected with it were handling large quantities of the Werner bonds," said Mr. Wharton. "We are working to find out if the company itself was handling the stolen bonds and just what part it plays in the whole matter."

"It is evident that in Chicago the loot was being handled by bootleggers and cheap brokers. In the east the bootleggers seem to be the ones acting as 'fixers' in disposal of the stolen goods. By arresting these men we expect to reach through to the actual burglars and the men who directed the job."

It became known yesterday that as long as ten days prior to the robbery word was being passed through the bucket shops that within a short time a quantity of "hot"—stolen—bonds would be available. Other reports told of men seen watching the Werner building for several days in advance of the theft, apparently getting the lay of the land and planning how to enter the building.

The search for two men whose names have been given the police as the ones who engineered the theft continued yesterday.

JAPAN NAVY CUTS BUDGET, DROPS CRUISER PLANS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

TOKYO, Nov. 11.—The navy ministry, following the announcement that it could not maintain the amount allowed, has slashed its budget and agreed to accept a reduction of $3,000,000 yen ($30,000,000), leaving an ordinary appropriation of 117,400,000 yen ($1,174,000,000) and a special appropriation of 105,000,000 yen ($1,050,000,000).

The other departments likewise are protesting against drastic cuts. The construction of a first class cruiser contracted by Mitsubishi has been ordered abandoned. Other contracts probably will be abandoned.

QUAKE KILLS 300 IN EAST PERSIA; MANY HOMELESS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

TEHRAN, Nov. 11.—The governor of Kermanshah reports that 300 were killed and over 1,000 families are homeless and roaming in the wilderness without food or winter clothing as a result of a severe earthquake followed by a volcanic eruption in the mountain chain near Kermanshah. The villages affected are mostly near the mountains. Immediate relief is begged from the central government. Earthquake shocks are frequent in east Persia. A shock also was felt at Demavend.

Are You Merchandising Over "Dirt Roads"?

The engineers have proved on tests that a team of horses can pull four times as big a load on concrete pavement as on a good dirt road! Obvious, of course. But it required such proof to show some county commissioners the economy of a better way.

Many manufacturers are still moving merchandise over "dirt roads." They consider salesmanship as the power to surmount all obstacles. They are slow to realize that Salability which comes from advertising to the consumer multiplies the results from salesmen—that selling, like hauling, is most efficient when the way is paved.

More than 19 years' relationship with a remarkable group of great advertisers, puts a significant value on the experience of this advertising agency in helping advertisers get their goods to market over the best roads.

THE SEARCHLIGHT.

Ernest H. Lyons, as expert under the Thompson conduct of city affairs, took the grand jury that had given Percy H. Smith, then at the head of the city civil service commission, $57,000 of the $600,000 he received from the city for expiring on various improvements. Lyons, who until recently was chairman of Smith's civil service commission, having advised Smith, several weeks ago, to finally advised Smith to give up his position. He admitted he had received $57,000 of city money paid to Lyons and said he had given it to two north side Thompson clubs.

This is a rather curious episode in the government of the city and under Smith, Thompson, and Lyons, and it is only one of many that can be seen from the city's records. Lyons, who has been in the city for some time, has been in the city for some time, and he has been in the city for some time. on the pledge that they would return to custody. If memory serves us, it was either 3 per cent or three individuals who returned.

Unquestionably that is humane to the immigrants. But it is on a par with the action of a humane jury which releases the sobbing murderer because it feels sorry for him, but forgets the family which he rendered fatherless and the society upon which he preys.

Secretary of Labor Davis is paid out of the public funds of this country to serve this country, not to serve foreigners who seek entrance here in defiance of our laws. True, the law gives him some powers of discretion, but its purpose is clearly to restrict immigration to a definite maximum.

There is to be any exhibition of humanitarian instincts, it ought to be directed to consideration of Americans who want the foreign flood reduced, rather than to the scouring of Europe who seek admission here for purposes of their own.

MR. COOLIDGE SITTING PRETTY.

We doubt there is great disappointment over the failure to realize the Hughes suggestion of last December resurrected by British diplomacy. Mr. Poincaré's ideas being somewhat fixed, it could hardly be expected by those who recognize the realities of European politics that he would care for such an inquiry as Mr. Hughes had in mind, from which Mr. Poincaré had little to gain and perhaps considerable to lose.

As a phase in the diplomatic duel between Downing street and Quai d'Orsay, this effort may reveal its full significance later. It has not changed the situation in any material sense, but it may have had imponderable effects that will appear later.

Meanwhile President Coolidge, as the smoke of diplomatic battle rises, is discovered not merely unharmed but in possession of the field, speaking from the viewpoint of our own politics. The Hughes suggestion was thrown off during Mr. Harding's presidency and may be said to have been an expression of one of those policies which Mr. Coolidge has said he would try faithfully to carry on. Well, he has done all that properly could be done with the Hughes proposal. Yet the result has not been to carry Mr. Coolidge and the rest of us into the European entanglement. We are still clear. We do not see how either side can criticize the President or do otherwise than approve his course of action. He has answered all those who have been asserting that Europe wants our advice, our moral leadership or influence, on any terms; but he has conditioned our action upon American interest, which is in the economic stabilization and restoration of Europe and not in political adjustments of power.

GET OUT OF THE SHIPPING BUSINESS.

We trust the coming congress will disentangle its common sense from its politics long enough to get the government out of the shipping business.

The United States is not socialist. Our people in the main do not want the government to run business, although under one provocation or another they have permitted a considerable extension of political control over private activities. But the business of shipping is about the last industry which a government is fitted to manage. Success in building up and operating profitably a merchant marine can only be won by a complicated combination of private initiative, world-wide knowledge and experience of transportation, traffic and merchandising. Its problems are many sided and fluctuating. No sensible man who knows anything about the conditions with which the expert in shipping must deal can hope that a government bureaucracy, even if it could be free from political pressures, could evolve or direct successfully a great national marine.

We believe every man in congress, except a few impractical or politicians hoping to win votes on the government ownership plan, realize this to be the unquestionable fact. Then why not have the courage to act up to it and stop now the money waste of government operation and the injury to private enterprise which government operation inflicts?

The first loss to us is told in statistics. The second cannot be, but it is a worse evil. We cannot hope for a vigorous growth of American shipping as long as private enterprise has to fight the unlimited resources of the government. The whole nation is injured by this obstruction. It should be removed without further procrastination, even though a large sum has to be charged off on our books to get free. It will not be as large a loss as we are suffering and will continue to suffer from the continuation of government management.

ISOLATION.

Advocates of our jumping into the European brawling are fond of rebuking Uncle Sam for his isolation. It is a sophistry which may carry weight with sentimentalists and vicious ultraists, but it makes Americans who have any respect for facts rather weary. We need not go back to our contributions of lives and billions during the war years; though they show up the isolation talk as sheer nonsense. Perhaps the sixty or seventy millions sent to starving Russia is forgotten, but is a million and a half contributed in the last six months to the German children's fund, with many more soon to follow, an evidence of our isolation? It may be that is a bagatelle. Then how about $17,000,000, the estimated American contribution—up to date—to Japanese relief?

Uncle Sam has contributed to Europe considerably over fourteen billion dollars since 1917, over half of that since the war ended. If that represents a heartless isolation, what is participation?

Editorial of the Day

ONE SUGGESTION.

(Detroit News.) President Coolidge's suggestion that the railroads lower their rates for carrying grain to the sea coast has been negated by the committee of railway executives. They said that a rate cut would be met by the Canadian and Argentine railways, thus bringing down the price of wheat abroad and saving the farmer no money.

There is nothing we can do against the Canadian wheat crop's competition in the foreign market, but there is a great deal that both the United States and the Canadian governments can do to facilitate the marketing of the North American wheat crop abroad, giving it a tremendous advantage over South American wheat.

These governments can unite in putting through the St. Lawrence waterway project, which would bring ocean grain carriers to the head of the great lakes and save from 1,000 to 1,500 miles of expensive railway haul. How would the Argentine, whose nearest port is 1,000 miles from the St. Lawrence, meet such a money saving move as this?

WHAT WARM AIR DOES TO BODY.

CONDITIONS of warm air have a powerful influence on the human body, an influence which records itself over a range from heat stroke at one end to grizzling at the other.

The three qualities of air which are major factors in producing these effects are: temperature, humidity, and drafts. Savers and Harrington conducted very extensive experiments from which they obtained the following results:

A. Men at rest in air saturated with moisture and at a temperature of 51% for one hour, with no air movement. Effects on men:

Increase in body temperature. Moderate increase in pulse rate. Profuse sweating. Disincline and weakness as after exertion.

WITH AIR MOVEMENT. Slight or no increase in body temperature. Slight increase in pulse rate. Slight perspiration. No after effects.

No ill effects at any time, but the noise of the fan was complained of. The conclusion is that when people live in air that is saturated with moisture and is 51% degrees hot, they will be comfortable if the fans are working or the breeze is blowing.

B. Same conditions, except the temperature of the air was 75.

STILL AIR. Increase in temperature of the body. Marked increase in pulse rate. Very profuse sweating, clothing being saturated with sweat.

Sweat on skin. Disincline on movement. Rapid respiration. Chilling sensation.

DRAFT OF 250 TO 300 FEET PER MINUTE. Slight or no increase in body temperature. Slight or no increase in pulse rate. Profuse sweating. No untoward symptoms.

Conclusion: People can stand saturated air at 51% if they are in a draft. C. Same conditions, except air at 95%.

At this temperature not even moving air made conditions tolerable. In moving air, there was an increase in body temperature, an increase in pulse rate (in one case up to 135), very profuse sweating, disincline. No work could be done at this temperature.

D. Same conditions, except air at 100.

STILL AIR. Body temperature rose to 101.5. Pulse rate rose to 155 to 175. Profuse sweating. Early appearance of disincline and weakness.

When the air was set in motion (250 to 300 feet per minute) the people under

Dinner and Dance Frocks from France

Gowns Aglow with Beads And Aglow with Color

THESE Frocks have all the simplicity of line that is truly Parisian, and the decorative quality lies in the beautiful designs of the heavy beading and their exquisiteness of color. They are made of the finest of georgettes, some beaded, others embroidered and combined with moire. For those whose wardrobes are guided by a social calendar, such a Gown as any one of these will prove indispensable for dinner or dance.

Of the two illustrated, the first to the left is of heavy georgette, embroidered in gray, henna, and cocoa as well as black, at $75.

The second, heavy with clear crystal beads, is uniquely lovely because of the diagonal pattern of the beading. In rare shades of orchid, peach, turquoise, French blue, and black, at $65. There are other most individual Frocks in this group—all imported—priced at $65, $75, $85.

Misses' Frocks Have the French Feeling for Simplicity

THE French draw the line so sharply between what is correct for young women and for matrons that their misses' frocks are expected to show a marked individuality. Typical of this feeling is the dress pictured, sleeveless, with neck girlishly round, and trimming of French taffeta roses and silver tracery.

Slim affairs in white with crystal or with delicate gold and silver embroideries, unusual tones of lavender, pale rose and jade are noticeable among these carefully selected frocks of our own importation.

Observations from The First Night of Opera

THERE was a certain pair of Slippers I noticed between the acts of "Boris." Charming indeed, for besides being very smart, they were rich with color—not alone of their own bright hue—but the color of many countries which had influenced them. They were of satin, with Spanish heels, and cross straps with steel beads in a Grecian design—these at a Russian opera. Shawls Worn With the Effect of a Train

Trailing their long fringes with the effect of a graceful train, most of the gorgeously embroidered Spanish shawls (and there were many) were worn triangularly.

CON MAN NABBED
HERE WANTED IN
SCORE OF CITIES

Charges multiplied yesterday against Harry Hayden, alias David B. Frick, whom the police call a "confidence man de luxe," on the eve of his appearance in South Clark street court today to answer two Chicago complaints.

Since Hayden's spectacular arrest last Wednesday by Sergeant Thomas McFarlane and William Croft as he was attempting to flee from the Drake hotel, photographs and a description of the man have been broadcasted by the police.

The detectives have learned that "sleekers" answering Hayden's description, but known under various aliases, are wanted by authorities of Denver, Houston, New York, Jacksonville, Fla., and other cities. Government men in Jacksonville say they want him under the name of David B. Frick for using the mails for defrauding a "sucker" out of $25,000.

A search was renewed yesterday for Hayden's pal in several of his windies. This pal is said to be Frank (Diamond) Goodrich, now hiding in Chicago.

ASKS ZEIDLER'S RELEASE

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special.] Will Colvin, state superintendent of pardons and paroles, early today forwarded a request to the state attorney of Madison county asking the release of Gus Zeidler, ex-convict and Gov. Small's chef, who was arrested on Saturday charged with assault with intent to kill.

Colvin sent Chief Parole Officer Clarkson and A. M. Neal to Edwardsville to effect the release of the paroled convict.

At the same time Colvin issued a statement condemning the Madison authorities for arresting Zeidler. "Common decency to the executive of the state," he said, "should have caused the sheriff to exercise better judgment."

"When Zeidler was paroled the governor was in need of a chef. I knew Zeidler was an exceptional cook and personally urged the governor to try this man."

Zeidler was arrested at Edwardsville last night by a Leander police agent, Michael Gray, and his squad arrested three other men who were playing cards. Several bottles of medicine were seized.

VAST TAX CUT, MELLON'S PLAN --BUT NO BONUS

Every Citizen Would Be

drop all consideration of tax reduction and consider ways and means for providing additional revenue."

Must Live Within Budget.

"The recommendations for tax reduction set forth in this letter are only possible if the government keeps within the program of expenditure which the bureau of budget has laid down at the direction of the President," says Secretary Mellon, in concluding his announcement.

"A soldiers' bonus would postpone tax reduction, not for one but for many years to come. It would mean an increase rather than a decrease in taxes, for in the long run it could be paid only out of moneys collected by the government from the people in the form of taxes."

"Throughout its consideration of the problem the treasury has proceeded on the theory that the country would prefer a substantial reduction of taxation to the increased taxes that would necessarily follow from a soldiers' bonus, and I have faith to believe that it is justified in that understanding."

"Certainly there is nothing better calculated to promote the well being and happiness of the whole country than a measure that will lift, in some degree, the burden of taxation that now weighs so heavily on all."

A tabulation, included in the secretary's letter sent to Representative

Green, who will be the new chairman of the ways and means committee, shows that the reduction of 25 per cent in the tax on earned income will mean a decrease in revenue of $17,000,000; reduction in normal taxes, a decrease of $22,000,000; readjustment of surtax rates, a decrease of $182,000,000; repeal of telegraph and telephone taxes, a decrease of $20,000,000; and repeal of the admissions tax, a decrease of $70,000,000; a total decrease of $291,000,000.

The limitation of capital losses will mean an increase of $25,000,000 in revenue; the limitation of interest and capital loss deductions, an increase of $25,000,000; and the community property amendment, an increase of $2,000,000. A total increase of $52,000,000. Deducting increases from estimated decreases shows a net annual loss in revenue of $239,000,000.

Surplus Under Present Scheme.

Secretary Mellon states that on the basis of present expenditures and present taxes there should be a surplus of something over $200,000,000 a year for the next four or five years.

The proposed reduction of 25 per cent in the tax on earned income is one of the most important of the changes. Coupled with the reduction on all normal taxes from 4 to 3 per cent and from 8 to 6 per cent it means that a taxpayer with an income of $4,000 or less, now subject to a normal tax of 4 per cent, would pay an income tax of only 2 1/2 per cent on that portion of his income consisting of wages or salary.

That portion of his income from investments or from a business would be subject to the 3 per cent tax. Instead of a normal tax of 8 per cent on that portion of income above $4,000, the taxpayer would pay only 4 1/2 per cent on wages and salary and 8 per cent on income from business or investment.

In making the tax reductions proposed effective Jan. 1, 1924, it would mean that the taxpayer would pay present rates on income of the calendar year 1923, the lower rates applying for the first time on returns made early in 1924 for the calendar year 1924.

Mr. Mellon says that he recommends a reduction in surtax rates not in order to reduce the revenues but as a means of saving the productivity of the surtaxes.

"In the long run it will mean higher rather than lower revenues, from the surtaxes," he says. "At the outset it may involve a temporary loss in revenue, but the government anticipates that even during the first year, if the revision is made early enough, the net loss in revenue from all the changes in the surtaxes would be only about $100,000,000, and that in all probability the revenue from the reduced rates will soon equal or exceed what would accrue at the present rates, because of the encouragement which the changes will give to productive business."

Not a Partisan Measure.
"The readjustment of the surtaxes has been recommended by every secretary of the treasury since the end of the war, irrespective of party. The present system is a failure. It was an emergency measure, adopted under the pressure of war necessity and not to be counted upon as a permanent part of our revenue structure."

"The high rates put pressure on taxpayers to reduce their taxable income, tend to destroy individual initiative and enterprise, and seriously impede the development of productive business."

"Ways will always be found to avoid taxes so destructive in their nature, and the only way to save the situation is to put the taxes on a reasonable basis that will permit business to go on and industry to develop."

Bomb Believed "Hint" to Colored Families to Move

Police yesterday investigated the origin of a bomb which was hurled early in the day into a three-story building at 2390 Ellis avenue owned by former Alderman Oscar De Priest and tenanted by three colored families. Learning of threats made several days ago against the tenants, who are the only Negro families in that immediate vicinity, police believe the object of the perpetrators was to force the Negroes to move. No one was hurt, but a property damage of $1,000 was caused.

FORD WON'T RUN FOR PRESIDENT—PAT HARRISON

Henry Ford will not be a candidate for President, in the opinion of Senator Pat Harrison (Dem., Miss.). The senator makes this statement after observing conditions in forty states in which he has recently made speeches. "I have my judgment," he said, "on what I see and hear." And then he added that he believes President Coolidge will be the Republican nominee; he also believes (and he's positive about it) and "next year will be Democratic and the Democratic nominee will be elected."

Choice of Neither Party. He was interviewed in his room at the Congress hotel last night. Later he spoke at a meeting in Rogers Park. So far as Ford is concerned, he said, Ford has not declared himself as being affiliated with either of the major parties, and therefore he will not be the choice of either convention.

"Ford," he added, "will not, in my judgment, run as an independent." Senator Harrison predicted that the United States will enter the world court.

"Naturally," he said, "we are expecting President Coolidge to insist on our entrance into the world league court, carrying out one of the late President Harding's policies. If he does and will stand with the Harding speech in New York City, it will be overwhelmingly ratified."

"The soldiers' bonus," he continued, "ought to come up in the next Congress and it ought to pass, but that all depends on the attitude of President Coolidge and the Republican leadership."

Analysis Democratic Situation. Senator Harrison would not commit himself regarding the Democratic nominee. "We have so many available candidates that there is presented a unique situation within the ranks of the Democratic party," he said. "Mr. Adoo has strength all over the country, but he is especially strong in the west and middle west. Our has a host of friends. Underwood is strong in the south and sections of the east. Al Smith is the leading candidate in the east."

"John Davis is highly respected in every section of the country. Ralston occupies a very strategic position and having made a splendid governor and recently defeated Beveridge, he is a much talked of character. He undoubtedly has the largest following in the country as second choice."

"With such an array of talent the next Democratic convention will be one of the most interesting ever convened. It matters not who is the Democratic nominee—this coming year is a Democratic year and the nominee will be elected."

Supreme Court, After 21 Day Rest, Meets Today

Washington, Nov. 11.—The Supreme court, after a three-week recess, will meet tomorrow noon. A number of opinions will be handed down.

BUSINESS WOULD SPREAD PRACTICE OF GOLDEN RULE

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 11.—Establishment in various cities of chapters for teaching the application of Christian principles to business was recommended today at the closing session of the annual convention of the Christian Business Men's Clubs. The proposal was submitted to the board of directors for action.

Speakers at this afternoon's session stressed the view that business and religion should go hand in hand, and declared that material success can be gained by following Christian teachings. They testified that religion applied to every day business brought noteworthy results.

A recommendation for localizing work of the clubs was submitted to the directors in the form of a proposal to organize the federation regionally, with a vice president at the head of each group. It was suggested that four or five districts be formed to cover the United States and parts of Canada.

Charles E. Watts, Philadelphia, president; Albert Wood, Detroit, vice president; Francis J. Gable, Kansas City, secretary; and David Walker Pye, New York, were reflected.

O. F. Anderson, Moline, Heads Illinois U. 'Dads'

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—O. F. Anderson of Moline was elected president of the Dads' association at the University of Illinois last night. The association is made up of fathers of students attending the state educational institution. Other officers named are Judge William M. Butler, Cairo, vice president, and S. K. Hughes, Champaign, secretary. Carl Reed, Monticello; W. R. Jewell, Danville; E. S. Hunt, DeKalb; W. G. Edens, Chicago, and H. S. Kramer, East St. Louis, were elected executive committee members.

DISABLED VETS RAP INQUIRY; 'NO HELP FOR THEM'

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Senators obtained in the hearings of the senate committee investigating the veterans' bureau are far from satisfactory to the disabled American veterans, says a statement tonight by the Washington office of that organization.

"More than half the time allotted the committee has expired," the statement says, "and practically nothing has been done from the viewpoint of the disabled."

The statement adds that much of the information obtained by the committee not only is misleading, but some of it is "actually untrue."

The statement is made that James A. McFarland, national commander of the disabled veterans, will come here this week to consult with the committee.

DRYS UNCERTAIN ABOUT TREATY TO MAKE IT 12 MILES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Responding to criticism from administration sources, that it would be foolish for the Anti-Saloon league to fight the pending treaty with England, extending the search and seizure territorial limits to twelve miles, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the league, declared today that no action had been taken regarding the treaty.

"Action will not be taken," he said, "until terms of the proposal are definitely known."

The only practical question to decide is whether the advantage which we get in search beyond the three mile limit offsets the disadvantages of permitting foreign ships to bring liquor within the three mile limit, for, as the Supreme court said in a recent case, "if they let it in, some of it was likely to stay." It is possible, however, to safeguard against such evasions.

LONDON AGREES TO FREEDOM OF ALL DOMINIONS

Each Unit to Be Responsible for Own Defense.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1923, By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—(Tribune Re-)

Ass.)—The British government today issued a summary of the work of the imperial conference, which is more remarkable for what it does not say than for what it does say. In the main it covers the ground already covered by statements published from time to time as the conference met, but it also throws some light on other subjects not fully disclosed at the time.

On the state of Europe, after pointing out that the conference believes the assistance of the United States is almost essential to any real settlement in Europe, at the same time it is of the opinion that if the efforts to secure the United States' cooperation failed, the British should examine carefully the alternative of calling a conference itself in order to consider the financial and economic problems in their widest aspects.

The conference also declared that any policy which would result in breaking up the unity of the German state is inconsistent with the treaty obligations of the powers and will not help

Germany discharge its obligations.

One of the most important subjects discussed was that of the treaty making powers of the units of the British commonwealth, which really was a test of independent nationality. It was decided that every dominion has a full right to negotiate treaties concerning matters applying to that dominion only. In cases where the treaties proposed affected more than one unit of the empire such units should be carefully consulted in all stages of the negotiations and take part in the ratification, and in special cases the empire as a whole should participate. Ratifications must be signed by plenipotentiaries representing all the units interested. On the question of defense the conference decided to act on the guiding principle of the responsibility of each unit of the empire for its own defense, the empire as a whole being responsible for guarding trade and strategic routes and the great avenues of communication, such as the Mediterranean and Red seas and for the provision of adequate naval bases, coaling stations, etc.

Each dominion is to be encouraged to develop its own navy within the limits imposed by the Washington treaty. The provision of adequate air forces for each dominion also is to be encouraged. Reading between the lines, it is evident that the dominions throughout asserted their essential independence and their position as allies, or at least as partners in a common empire. This attitude is frankly accepted by the British, who realize that this form of organization is stronger than any based on forcible government from London.

Henri, Hurst & McDonald ADVERTISING 58 East Washington Street, Chicago

The following quotation is from a letter, written by one of our customers. The recipient of the letter is a well known manufacturer who wanted to learn more about our service.

"I consider Henri, Hurst & McDonald the foremost advertising agency in the United States. What Henri, Hurst & McDonald are doing now, other agencies will be doing five years from now."

Which is your child?

Which is your child? The one whose face, uplifted, shines with childish triumph, or the little drooping figure of dejection? Your child! What would you not do to help your boy or your girl? What would you not do to make them happy? Oh, the tragedies of childhood—so often unseen by parents, yet so keenly felt by the little ones. All the joys and the heartaches of grown-ups are in the children's little world. Your boy or girl wants to lead and you want them to lead. Help them by putting into their hands the best means of helping themselves. How they enjoy this new way! In a million happy families children are learning joyously today from the 10,000 Book of Knowledge pictures that teach, and the brief but fascinating articles which make the important knowledge of the world full of vital everyday interest.

Book of Knowledge children are learning the wonder of a piece of silk; the marvelous construction of the ear and what our skin is like; how men learned to tell time; where tea, coffee, sugar, rubber, leather and coal come from; the birth of the wheat and how it becomes bread. They are learning about the people, geography and the government of a hundred different countries—old Egypt, with its buried treasures, and young Australia, with its "sheep runs" and its gold. They are learning how the great ones of earth achieve the things most worth while—invention, art, music and poetry—everything which makes a well-rounded mind.

Have you a definite plan in mind regarding the education of your child in the home? Fathers and mothers of today have a far greater responsibility than in any other day and generation. The demand for trained brains is urgent. Yesterday the child of average intelligence and industry had a good chance for a successful life. Today the boy or girl who is not prepared to meet the many difficult demands of a new era will be classed among the failures. The Book of Knowledge in the home is the biggest and best chance which you can give your child to achieve a happy, useful and successful life.

PROFIT MARGINS BY COAL DEALERS SHOW REDUCTION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Profit margins taken by wholesalers in the anthracite industry have continued to decline since the conclusion of the recent miners' strike, the federal trade commission reported today, but a considerable tonnage is still being moved through the hands of two or three middlemen, with consequent enhancement of price, before being released for consumption.

The report is the third of a series on the market situation made by the commission which was directed during the strike to take up the work.

Profiting After Strike.
Immediately after the strike, during the period of shortage market, the commission found that wholesalers who took orders for the coal in some cases were charging as much as $1 a ton for the service. As high as 37 per cent of the coal sold through the middlemen bore a commission of 50 to 75 cents per ton.

For the last week, covered by the report—that of Oct. 29, about 25 per cent of the coal traced carried a commission between 50 and 74 cents a ton.

Wholesalers Refuse Data.

Efforts on the part of the commission to obtain facts as to profits on a large volume of coal had been hindered, the report said, by refusal of some of the largest wholesalers to furnish their records. These concerns, it was said, were now forced to do so by the commission's compulsory process.

"Some reluctance is being handled by wholesalers at a loss, the commission reported, but the market is still taking considerable amounts of 'premium coal' produced by independent concerns in Pennsylvania.

AMERICAN FARM BUREAU STUDIES DANISH FARMS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 11.—(Tribune Radio.)—The American Farm Bureau federation's committee arrived here today. It is studying European agricultural methods, visiting Denmark, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, and Belgium.

The members of the committee are: Guy Silver of Martinsburg, W. Va., the leader; Dr. W. E. Walker of California; Corwell Burlington of Vermont; George Stirling of Huron, S. D.; Murray Lincoln of Columbus, O.; Theodore M. Knapp, economic writer of Washington; and E. Michael, special representative of the United States department of agriculture.

Mr. Silver has arranged for motion pictures of Danish farming. The committee expects to return on Dec. 5.

POLICE ON GUARD AS TWO FALL IN FEUDIST AMBUSH

Suspect Vendetta or Rum Killings.

Police guarded against a possible outbreak of hostilities in the Italian quarter of the west side last night as a sequel to the mysterious murder late on Saturday night of Peter Mangia, an alleged bootlegger, and Robert Mangan, a former policeman. The bullet-riddled bodies of the two men were found near "Death corner" in the Steppen district of the north side.

Investigation revealed that both victims were from the west side, adding mystery to the fact that the killings occurred in the Milford avenue district. Mangia, it was learned, left the police force while under suspicion in connection with bootlegging activities. He had been assigned to the Maxwell street station.

The shooting took place a short time after 10 p.m. Christopher Hughes of the detective bureau had stopped and searched Mangia and Mangan for liquor and weapons while they were driving in Mangia's car. Mangia's body later was found, following a fusillade of shots, in front of 316 Milford avenue. Nearby lay a shotgun and a revolver, apparently abandoned by the assassins. Detective Sergeant William Brennan stumbled upon Mangan's body in an alley a stone's throw from where Mangia met his death. Two bullet wounds were in the head. Mangan still clutched his own revolver, from which several shots had been fired.

Mangan's car was found parked in front of 414 West Chicago avenue, two blocks from the murder scene. The engine was running, indicating, it is thought, that Mangia and Mangan were lured from the car and walked into a death trap.

Lacking any clue to the identity of the assassins, the police are unable to determine whether the deaths are the result of a bootleggers' war or of "Black Hand" activities.

A man representing himself as Rocco Monopoli, and claiming to be the father of Mangia, visited the East Chicago avenue police station during the day, but disappeared before he could be questioned.

A TOAST

In Merrie Old England it was the custom to have pieces of toast floating in hot beverages;

And these beverages were frequently used in drinking to the health of an honored guest;

Whence the expression "to drink a toast" which is used to this day.

At CHILDS every guest is an honored guest and every drink a toast.

Walk to Work

Get to the office with blood pulsing, mind clear, every muscle a-thrill with vitality, every faculty alert.

But be sure you start out in the right footwear. For comfort and endurance wear Cantilever Shoes. They distribute the weight properly, so that walking involves no strain. Their natural inner sole line encourages correct carriage. The carefully designed insole is drawn up, as you lace the shoe, till it fits snugly and gives the foot restful support.

In contrast with ordinary shoes, which bind the foot by a cruel rigid sole, the Cantilever Shoe has a flexible shank. It yields with the foot in walking, so that the muscles exercise with every step. In consequence, they grow strong and fallen arches are prevented or corrected.

Cantilever Shoes are endorsed by experts and recommended particularly to people who must be on their feet constantly. If cords and muscles in your feet and legs ache, change to Cantilever Shoes. The comfort and relief they bring has been a boon to many sufferers from foot troubles.

PURDUE DAIL LEAVES STOR DEFEAT UN

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 11.—Old Man Gloom reigns over the Purdue university football team since the Buckeyes triumphed over the Boilermakers, 12 to 6, in the final game of the season for the remainder of the year. The team is now in the hands of the coaches for the remainder of the season.

The Purdue Boilermakers, under the leadership of Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, played the game against Ohio State, which was a blank in the Sunday morning special usually devoted to Purdue football games. The game was a blank in the column given over to the editorial comment on the previous day.

Did Not Do Their Best
It is said that those in charge of the Purdue publication failed to mention the fact that the team was capable and that the game was a better showing in remaining upon the Purdue team's first with Northwestern coming next Saturday.

Northwestern's grind for the championship was a hard one, and each evening there were sessions and chalk talks in the western gymnasium. Ne has a win against a Big Ten team yet, and the game will be the first in the second of the conference.

Thistlethwaite's Plan
Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite declared that he was pleased with the showing of the team. He said that the team was a win against a Big Ten team yet, and the game will be the first in the second of the conference.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT AND COMPANY

One of the Most Unusual Purchases of the Season Brings A Special Sale of New Silk Blouses

A selling event with unusually exceptional features. For these are beautiful blouses, charming in style and color. Indeed, such a really extraordinary collection of smart styles would be notable at pricings much higher than these. And one need only see them to realize how far out of the ordinary these values are.

At $10.50 and $15.50

The colors in many instances are gorgeous, the designs such as one sees on imported blouses. The beads are the tiniest, the embroidery work intricate and in "different" patterns. These blouses are in the overblouse style preferred above other blouse styles this season.

Four styles are sketched. But as so much of the beauty of these blouses is in their rich colors and their strikingly effective garniture, the sketches cannot do them justice. And the superior quality of the satin or silk crepe is one of the notable features of this sale.

HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH MARRIED

BY DORIS BLAKE

Photo eyes are pointed out: "When it comes to their duties they will have the mortification of seeing their bodies performed by their husbands." A. R. Wadia, professor of philosophy, condemning the limitation of modern families to one or two children, says the worst of this limitation is that "it is to be found more commonly in educated classes, so that whether from the standpoint of heredity or environment a cultured couple tends to be the least useful." In the history of man children have never been so numerous as they are, if natural, culpable, if artificial.

It has been said that for a nation to maintain its vigor and numbers every couple ought to have at least four children, so as to leave a broad margin for early premature deaths of children.

"As it is," says Wadia, "there are many families with only one or two children, and this small size constitutes a distinct danger to the welfare of a nation." He calls attention to Dr. J. McKen Cattell's thought-provoking statement: "The completed family of contemporary scientific men in about two, the surviving family about 1.5, and the number of surviving children about 1.4. Twenty-two per cent of the families are childless; only one family in seventy-five is larger than six. These same conditions obtain for other college graduates."

"If the size of the family of college graduates should continue to decrease as it did during the nineteenth century, students graduating in 1955 would have no children at all. Answers from 461 leading scientific men, giving the causes which led to limitation in the size of their families, show that 172 were not voluntarily limited, while 289 were so limited."

"These figures speak for themselves," says Wadia, "and though perhaps it would be possible to bring forward statistics to show that in this respect noncollege couples are as much to blame as college ones, there can be no dispute about the broad fact that families are limited through artificial means, and this to a dangerous extent. Governments should be seriously concerned over this phenomenon."

In the study made by the Bureau of Social Hygiene from the answers to the Rockefeller questionnaire made by 1,449 college women, or at least women of high school education, we find 34 with no children, 466 with one, 269 with two, 123 with three, 71 with four, 37 with five children, five mothers of six, two of seven and one of eight and nine. Five hundred and twenty of the university and college graduates admitted limitation measures.

"On the whole," Wadia continues, "under the stress of modern conditions, a wholesale repudiation of limitation of families would be greatly deplorable. But it has to be admitted that the legitimate use of their means is far more common than their legitimate use. Their use outside marriage has distinctly led to a loss of real chastity on the part of men and women alike, while within the institution of marriage their use is influenced by considerations of selfishness, fostered by artificial wants rather than by considerations of efficiency."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

One Way Out.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young girl, 18, and have been going out with a young man the same age for two years. I have a girl friend he wants me to give up because he does not like her. I love this young man, and still would like to continue the friendship of my girl friend, as she is a nice girl. What is the best thing for me to do? I do not want to give this fellow up. His request does seem a bit dictatorial, does it not? But rather than have any unpleasantness over it, if the man means more to you than the girl, you would better arrange to see her when he is not around. I don't believe I'd make an issue of it."

Keep Looking Young

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feed young—in to the young most watch your liver and bowels. You need of having a saline complexion—dark rings under your eyes—dark circles around your eyes—dark eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you simply that all these come from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the solution for inactive bowels, is their only remedy. They bring action to the liver and bowels, which should only be done by feeding the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. Use 15c and 30c.

WHEAT TRADERS MOSTLY BEARISH: PRICES GO LOWER

BY CHARLES MICHAELS

A more bearish situation in the wheat market the world over has never been known. It is so strikingly apparent to every one in the trade that aside from liquidation by December holders who started to unload last week, there is nothing new of a depressing character. There is nothing but a steady decline in prices, and the market is not in condition to withstand heavy selling of any character without depressing prices. This has been the theory of a majority of traders for a considerable time, yet it has been only within the last few days that prices have shown decided weakness, with a drop of 1/2c on December, 1/4c on May, and 1/4c on July from the high point of the previous week. From the top of the previous week, December is off nearly 1/2c and May 1/4c. The December is 1/2c above the low point of the season, and the May nearly 1/2c over the season's high, with the net loss for the week of 1/4c on December, 1/4c on May, and 1/4c on July.

Wheat May "Cheapest Feed." Bearishness of the wheat situation has been known for such a long period that a good deal of its influence should be discounted. It does not seem to be selling pressure that it would under ordinary conditions, and while prices are at a level where wheat bread is considered the cheapest food the world over, there is no disposition on the part of foreign consumers to anticipate their future requirements and buy heavily.

There is a fair movement in the southwest and northwest and primary receipts so far this year aggregate 124,400,000 bu., against 230,000,000 bu. last year. Kansas City has received 35,116,000 bu., or 5,000,000 bu. less than last year, and has a stock of about 15,000,000 bu. in all positions. Chicago has received 40,295,000 bu., or 5,000,000 bu. more than last year, and has 19,000,000 bu. in all positions.

December wheat in Chicago closed Saturday at practically the lowest of the week, $1.02 1/2c, with May $1.05 1/2c and July $1.08 1/2c. Cash buyers are turning over their hedges from December to May, the spread on Saturday being the widest of the season, 50 3/4c, and expectations are that it will widen further. Prices for the week follow:

	Dec.	May	July
Wheat	1.02 1/2	1.05 1/2	1.08 1/2
Barley	1.02 1/2	1.05 1/2	1.08 1/2
Oats	1.02 1/2	1.05 1/2	1.08 1/2
Rye	1.02 1/2	1.05 1/2	1.08 1/2
Timothy	1.02 1/2	1.05 1/2	1.08 1/2
Alfalfa	1.02 1/2	1.05 1/2	1.08 1/2
Clover	1.02 1/2	1.05 1/2	1.08 1/2
Straw	1.02 1/2	1.05 1/2	1.08 1/2

Although the government report, given out late last Thursday, indicated a crop of 2,225,000,000 bu., or 140,000,000 bu. below last year, it is 29,000,000 bu. less than in 1921 and 179,000,000 bu. more than in 1922. The report is uneven in yield and quality, with high general moisture content, and good drying weather is greatly needed. Molding of the shocks is reported in many states, particularly in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Montana. There is considerable soil, and chaffy corn, and the percentage of merchantable corn is 75.4, compared with 80 per cent last year. This would mean a crop of 1,775,000,000 bu., or 450,000,000 bu. less than last year.

Distribution of the 1924 corn crop is not unusual. The southern states, including Texas, have received 1,100,000,000 bu., compared with 1,100,000,000 bu. last year, and a 1917-23 average of 1,100,000,000 bu. This would mean a crop of 1,100,000,000 bu., or 450,000,000 bu. less than last year.

The shipping demand for corn is of a kind to month character, and December and cash crop are out of line. It is expected that with a larger movement cash prices will decline. November corn closed Saturday at 33c, up 1/4c; December, 34c, up 1/4c; May, 35c, up 1/4c; July, 36c, up 1/4c. Prices for the week follow:

December corn advanced 1/4c and May 1/4c from the low point of the previous week, with a break of nearly 1/2c on December and 1/4c on May from the top of the previous week. The trade has become bearish and looks for lower prices for a time in expectation of a larger movement of the new crop.

'RUINED' EUROPE GOOD CUSTOMER OF 'ISOLATED' U.S.

BY SCRUTATOR

For an "isolated" nation, these little old United States seem to be doing a lot of business with foreigners, including "ruined" Europe.

The Fordney tariff keeps up its record of plugging revenue into the treasury, and not stopping the influx of goods. Its rather unexpected performance is partly responsible for the condition of the treasury, which makes a tax cut possible in the next congress. For the first quarter of the new fiscal year, which began July 1, the import duties last year record for the same quarter last year by $24,072. This is the face of a slowing down in manufacturing activity and lessened demand for imported raw materials.

The most significant foreign trade figure, however, which flatly contradicts the whole tenor of the internationalist campaign, which we have been enduring, are those which show our dealings with Europe for September. "Ruined" America imported more in September, 1932, than in the same month last year, and exported 60,000 more, increase of 5 and 23 per cent respectively.

The ratio of our exports to Europe to our total export trade is actually rising, despite the enormous increase of our export business to Central and South America. Our European exports were 53 per cent of the total last September against 52 per cent the same month in 1932.

This is a tendency that cannot be expected to continue. As the National City bank points out, our growth as a manufacturing country makes it inevitable that we will export more manufactures as time goes on, and naturally we will not export the bulk of these to a manufacturing continent like Europe but to virgin fields.

The only way in which we could go back to our nineteenth century ratio of European exports would be to accept the protection of the tariff, and our former status as an economic dependency to London and Paris finance. Doubtless this would be gratifying to our internationalist advocates of national abasement and suicide, but we will hardly do it.

These facts are so out of tune with the annual emotional storm for European entanglement that has come to mark every approach to Armistice day, that they will sound strange to many, although the tendencies revealed are not new and have been noted in this column before as the statistics have become available.

Pacts and figures however will have little effect on the campaign for entanglement. "Isolation" has become a cult with some, an obsession with others. It is bound up with an elaborate mythology which has grown up about the world war. History cannot fail to note that those who favored American intervention in the war and three who did the fighting have had little to say about the interpretation of the conflict to date.

They who prattled of "kept us out of the war" before we got into it have assumed the cultural proprietorship of it, and have made every effort to suppress its real motive. It has been their passion, they will sound strange to many, although the tendencies revealed are not new and have been noted in this column before as the statistics have become available.

The Midwest was slipped out this year. This was to be expected. Awareness of the war has been growing in Europe among other classes than those who enjoy Tom Mix and Bill Hart. Internationalism everywhere recent us, but realize that we are realistic.

They have reason and precedent for the belief that we can be converted. The southern Democratic machines, with the exception of Georgia and one or two other states, have been their pawns. The race conscious and particularistic south does not even suspect the grotesque position it occupies as the political spearhead of an internationalist faction, the implications of whose creed are the opposite of everything the north believes and acts on the home ground. Although the government report, given out late last Thursday, indicated a crop of 2,225,000,000 bu., or 140,000,000 bu. below last year, it is 29,000,000 bu. less than in 1921 and 179,000,000 bu. more than in 1922. The report is uneven in yield and quality, with high general moisture content, and good drying weather is greatly needed. Molding of the shocks is reported in many states, particularly in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Montana. There is considerable soil, and chaffy corn, and the percentage of merchantable corn is 75.4, compared with 80 per cent last year. This would mean a crop of 1,775,000,000 bu., or 450,000,000 bu. less than last year.

Distribution of the 1924 corn crop is not unusual. The southern states, including Texas, have received 1,100,000,000 bu., compared with 1,100,000,000 bu. last year, and a 1917-23 average of 1,100,000,000 bu. This would mean a crop of 1,100,000,000 bu., or 450,000,000 bu. less than last year.

The shipping demand for corn is of a kind to month character, and December and cash crop are out of line. It is expected that with a larger movement cash prices will decline. November corn closed Saturday at 33c, up 1/4c; December, 34c, up 1/4c; May, 35c, up 1/4c; July, 36c, up 1/4c. Prices for the week follow:

The New York Times

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—
The seemingly complete indifference of the stock market to the political vicissitudes of Europe was somewhat strikingly illustrated last week by the rise of prices on the stock exchange at the moment when the European market was most disquieting, and when the exchange of Europe was falling.
This attitude of the stock exchange is not new. Precisely the same thing happened early in the year, when foreign exchange was specifically mentioned as the French market was falling, the New York stock market was then beginning a spectacular advance.

This constantly reported anomaly has been a good many, even of the speculated watchers of the market. They have called attention, quite reasonably, to the fact that our own economic well-fare is in the long run bound to be greatly controlled by the course of affairs in Europe.

Reasons for a Mystery.
But the reason for the seeming indifference of today is not altogether a mystery. In the case of the pre-war market, it should not be overlooked that the feeling and action of European holders of American stocks and bonds was as potent an influence on the New York market as the feeling and action of American investors.

Discouragement or alarm among European investors was in those days apt to lead to expression in sales of foreign as well as home securities. Most Wall Street people will remember how closely the foreign sales or purchases on the exchange were then watched at the opening of business in New York. But that situation has been radically changed by the events of war time. The buying and selling of these foreign holdings of our own shares long ago. Purchases or sales by London are nowadays discussed as altogether a minor influence.

Other Reasons for Conditions.

There are other reasons for our market's attitude, apart from the specific reference to the situation of the moment. Europe's political and economic complications have undoubtedly had a hand in checking the demand of American capitalists into European markets. Few new European loans have been taken this year; the total placed this year has probably been $300,000,000 or $400,000,000 less than last year.

This change may have represented the arresting of a logical economic movement, but the immediate results were to accumulate for home enterprises and home markets more capital than would have been available if the program of 1922 had been exactly followed. A year ago it was even predicted that by this time the United States would be exporting gold. Instead of that, our gold imports still average something like $100, $200,000 per month; an amount which would have been a respectable total import for the season prior to 1914.

Different View Now.
It is true that the view taken of these gold imports, even by practical bankers, is very different from what it was in 1922. Instead of the gratification and enthusiasm with which a heavy gold import movement was then regarded, the present huge inflow of gold at a time when we already had more than enough for the needs of home finance and trade is discounted in a spirit of disappointment if not dislike.

The attitude of the American financial community towards the foreign exchange rates has also been changed. A heavy fall in European exchange rates, occurring in an autumn season before the war, was variably interpreted as a sign of premise. It was interpreted to mean that a surplus of exports was continuing or that Europe was buying our securities. The same inference could be drawn from the activity, the other to a rising stock market. The old phrase—a movement of "exchange" in favor of this country—illustrates the point of view. Nowadays every financial paragraph refers to a fall in sterling or franc or lire as an unfavorable incident of the market, and an advance in them as an event highly accounting to our own finance.

"Futures" Fail to Worry.
That attitude recognizes plainly enough the real state we have in European economy and political recovery, but it cannot wholly alter the other implications of a movement of exchange in our favor and an import of gold. Whether these two phenomena are deemed desirable or not, in their present emphatic form, they at any rate testify now, as they did in 1912 or 1913, to a strong financial position in this country and the prospect of easy money.

It may, therefore, be said that in one sense the troubles of Europe indirectly give an added stimulus to the American markets of the moment. Even if the influence were to be merely temporary, it would explain the fact which puzzles
so many people, that the New York stock market does not fall on a new deadlock in "reparations" or a Rhineland revolt or a Bavarian "putsch," and does not when a turn for the better occurs in these episodes.

GLOOM SETTLES IN LONDON AS STOCKS TUMBLE

By Robert Steele.

(Copyright: 1923, By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—(Tribune Radio.)

An exceedingly dark week was passed by the London stock exchange.

The markets, with the single exception of oil, were a jaded appearance from the start, and even oil towards the close gave way before the prevailing pessimism.

The chief depressing factor was talk of an early general election which it was immediately forecast by the politicians would result in a substantial increase in the labor party's representation in parliament.

Apert from this the disruption of important December trade which an election would cause was viewed with the greatest dissatisfaction in business circles.

In addition the situation abroad left much to be desired, with Premier Poincaré's refusal to recede from his position with regard to the proposed economic experts to consider Germany's capacity to pay and the complications in the fatherland which culminated in the abortive Bavarian coup.

And looms in the background the specter of unemployment, which undoubtedly is a pivot for the domestic political situation.

There was a general decline in British gilt edged bonds, their aggregate value dwindling more than $5,000,000 (roughly $25,000,000) between Monday and Friday.

The depression extended to foreign securities, all the leading issues falling away noticeably. The Austrian loan was marked down 1 point, and Brazilian and French issues were weak on the exchange.

Without exception the home rail suffered losses. Foreign rails were equally gloomy, prices in the absence of support closing materially lower.

Isolated exceptions were withstood the downward trend in industrial stocks. Steels were inclined to harden, but they shaded off toward the end of the week. Chemicals made a spurt, but they later receded.

Kentucky Joint Stock Land Bank.

M. G. B.—The $100,000 Kentucky Joint Stock Land bank (Lexington, Ky.) is a 6 per cent bond of obligations of the bank and are secured by either first mortgages on farm lands or, temporarily, by United States government bonds or certificates of independent deposited as collateral. The liability of the bank's shareholders is double the amount of their stock. The bank operates under federal charter and government supervision. These bonds are issued under the federal farm loan act. Their issuance and the collateral pledged as security have been approved by the federal farm loan board, a bureau of the treasury department of the United States government. These bonds are a conservative investment. They are exempt from all federal, state, municipal, and local taxation.

Thousands Join in City's Celebration of Armistice Day—Crowd of 50,000 Sees Army Aviator Crash to Death

THOUSANDS GATHER AROUND THE STATUE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN IN LINCOLN PARK TO SEE GEN. JOSEPH HALLER, POLISH HERO, LAY WREATH AT THE FEET OF EMANCIPATOR. The Armistice day parade followed the ceremonies at the statue and those who took part in the parade composed the greater part of the crowd which gathered around its base. Polish and Czecho-Slovakian societies turned out in full force and were joined by several posts of the American Legion and other patriotic societies. The Illinois national guard was represented by the headquarters troop of the 122d Artillery.

TAX VS. BO FOES TRAIN FIGHT TO A

Bitter Battle Congress "I

BY ARTHUR SEARS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—If President Coolidge's Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's proposal to halve the soldier bonus and reduce taxes, the next session of congress is destined to be one of the stormiest on record.

This was indicated by the reception of the Melvin program today by senators and representatives. NEW LEGISLATORS IN-FERRED THE PLAN, AND THE OPINION WAS THAT A SOLDIER SHOULD BE PASSED, OVER THE TOP IF NECESSARY, AND THAT THE MEASURES WOULD BE EFFECTIVE.

Bonus Paces O. K. M. senators Borah (Rep., Id.), Pennington (Rep., La.), and Pennington (Rep., N. H.), Glass (Dem., N. J.), and Reed (Rep., Utah) assented to the bonus commission proposition. Advocates of the plan, which would reduce the highest income tax rate from 63 to 48 percent, and to 40 percent for income over $100,000, and to 30 percent for income over $50,000, and to 20 percent for income over $25,000, and to 10 percent for income over $10,000, and to 5 percent for income over $5,000, and to 3 percent for income over $2,500, and to 2 percent for income over $1,250, and Tax Program Is Popular

Members of congress are generally favorable to the Treasury Department's tax revision program which is expected to reduce the tax burden on small taxpayers and normal taxes is likely to be the most popular feature of the program.

There will be some objections to the fact that, as suggested by Mr. Mellon, the special rates will not apply to earnings or to earnings of a married couple.
